Description
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• this is currently done using <code>sql_io.put_table()</code>'s <code>col_defaults</code> parameter, which only supports constant values• the <code>col_defaults</code> mechanism should be expanded to be able to use any input column, or any value which is generatable from input columns• any value generated for a <code>col_default</code> should be cached permanently in the input table for reuse by other <code>col_defaults</code>, including <code>col_defaults</code> for future imports<ul style="list-style-type: none">◦ if the input table is a view, the view must first be materialized for this to work
